

Kiln Fired Ceramics

Ceramic is one of the most enduring indicators of culture. The art technique used to create this line of urns is a high heat process called reactive glaze which is hundreds of years old.

Since the glazes react differently during the heat process, the appearance will be very similar; however, each urn will take on its own unique characteristics. For this reason, as well as the artistic nature, ceramic remains a popular material choice for many families.

Desert Ceramic RU623L

7¹¹/₁₆" D x 9¹/₄" H
Volume: 195 Cubic Inches

Meadows Ceramic RU622L

7¹¹/₁₆" D x 9¹/₄" H
Volume: 195 Cubic Inches